When AI cites you, it also describes you.

That description is what a buyer reads.

Three things AI can get wrong about you.

Old information
It repeats pages and facts that are no longer true.

The cheap alternative
It describes you as the budget option.

Second place, with a reason
It puts another brand first and says why.

Check it on versus searches.

Your brand against another brand, or your product against theirs. That's where outdated answers cost you deals.

Read the words AI uses about you.

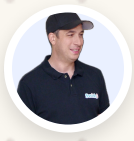

Then put enough content on your own site and on trusted third-party sites to reinforce the language you want.

READ IT

THEN REINFORCE IT

Ask ChatGPT to compare you with your closest competitor.

Then read every line of the answer.

Is it still true?
